Lowly

Lowly is a composer collective consisting of individual artists: Nanna Schannong, Kasper Staub (Islets Of Dust), Soffie Viemose (Nanome), Thomas Lund (Point Blank) and Steffen Lundtoft (NovemberDecember). The band members, who all have different genre backgrounds in e.g. hip hop and indie folk, compose all songs for the band and create a dreamy, avant-garde and noisy sound together.

Nanna Schannong

With an intense earnest vocal and noise-guitar Nanna Schannong delivers minimalistic indie-rock and dreamy shoegaze which immediately captures the listener's attention. The debut EP received much praise and was by among others the music site LYDTA-PETET.net placed on the list of best EP's in 2013.

NovemberDecember

Indie folk consisting of a good portion of string instruments, roaring drums, strong vocal harmonies – that is what you get from NovemberDecember. They are praised for their live-performances which are delivered with charm and good energy. The debut album has received great reviews and articulates some of life's transitions and developments, which is also what the band name NovemberDecember symbolises.

La La La

La La La is found safely between the electronic and organic musical universe. A music universe that delivers experimental pop performed with a strong light vocal. The band is working on their debut album and has not rested on their laurels when it comes to playing concerts: La La La has toured all over Denmark the past two years, and has also toured in Germany.
